REDEEMER

COLLEGE

FROG

OLYMPICS

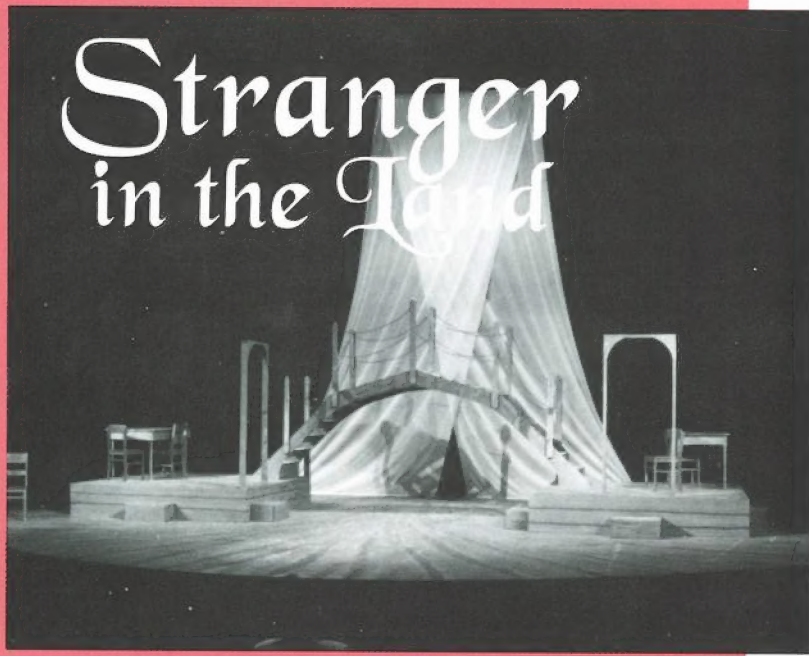

Another year, another group of energetic FROG leaders with their rhapsodic little freshmen froggies ready to do their bidding. The setting was the backyard of Redeemer College at 3:00. It was Wednesday, September 6, 1995. The ditch was watered and the mud was ready for eager little toes to plunge in and do the tug-of-war or was it the mud throw? We've hopped into the world of Redeemer's idea for Olympics. Volleyball is played with a blanket; bobbing for apples is managed in jello. As if people didn't look strange enough, we also had to orchestrate our bodies with a carrot tied around our waist and try to plunk it into a jar. Another event involved the use of a baseball bat - not for baseball - rather for making a red mark on the forehead and the onslaught of chronic dizziness. Put the bat to your forehead, the other end to the ground and spin? What fun! Next was body spelling. Oh, and filling a bucket of water with a dixie cup - yeah, right! Our last event consisted of stabbing the person next to you in the marshmallow! What a way to meet people up close and personal! And the mud flew, the jello flew, and more mud flew. Redeemer here we come!

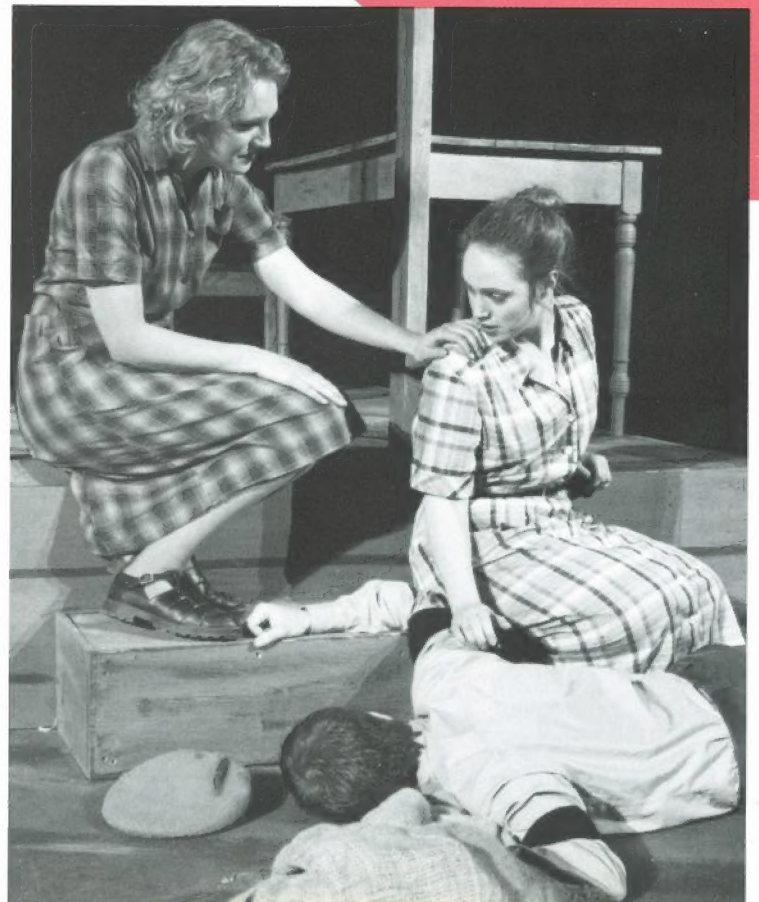

Freshmen '95-'96.

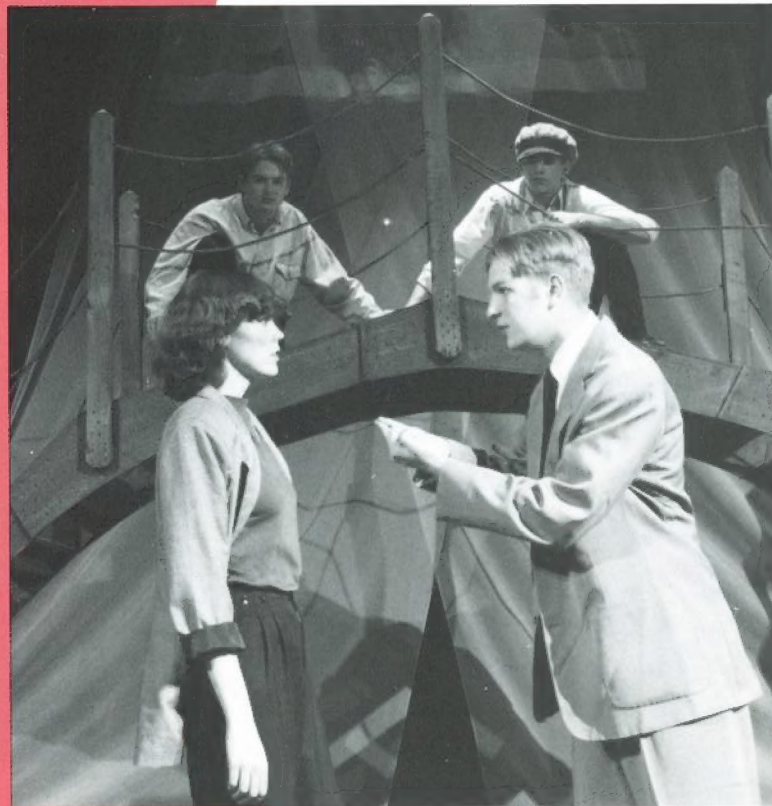

Stranger in the Land

Stranger in the Land, by Redeemer's own Raymond J. Louter, has proved to one of the biggest successes that the Redeemer theatre department has ever had. This post modern play covers the time between the invasion of Holland during the Second World War to the immigration of many survivors to Canada. It is set both in war torn Holland and in Canada. Ray Louter sensitively portrays the lives of the Dutch people in their various situations during and after the war. All in all, it was a great show!

Night of the Round Table

King Arthur would roll in his grave. While we were rolling on the floor. The occasion: "Night of the Round Table", our 1996 banquet. Aptly emceed by Vaughn Gowling and Winona Strikweda, the night of fun and feasting began with a meal fit for a king and large enough to feed an army. After our appetites were satisfied by Cornish hen, we were entertained by a program of fine, home grown Redeemer talent. Vaughn and Winona showed us an interpretation of Arthurian legend we had never quite heard before. The members of the Concert Choir put us in a medieval mood with a fine rendition of "The Boar's Head". Benita, Marja, Brad and Dave sang something that could have come straight from Camelot's chambers. Departing from the night's theme, we also heard times from the likes of artists from Raffi to the Beautiful South, as well as some original compositions about Dutch girls, Scottish "men", and more.

50's/ 60's Dance & SUMO WRESTLING

This was the year that we saw a few new thing in the halls of Redeemer College. Redeemer kicked off its social events calendar with a 50's/60's dance. Sending most of us for a quick jaunt down to Value Village for some vintage clothes and maybe a few things to add to the dorm. The sad part to this was that there were those that did not have to go past there own closet for the flash back to the past, 60's duds. In the mix of shades, cheer leaders, and tide died clothes the folk of Redeemer let down their hair to the sounds of ABBA and Elvis, all under a mirrored ball. This year also the Student Senate had people gain two hundred pounds (the suits weighs about that much too!!) and battle their best friends for a buck. This was the most humorous thing to see. Two large masses of brown, hopping at one an other in the hopes to knock someone down, and not yourself.

Spiritual Retreat

On the second weekend in January at Toby Lodge was were this years spiritual retreat was held. Lead by Danny Bird, the help of Grace Tuin and Mike Bulthuis they brought us a weekend of fun and spiritual reflection. The speaker , Pastor Paul, lead us through workshops by which we examined our spiritual lives. We focused on how it is Difficult, yet necessary to strengthen and to show our faith as believers in Christ.

Right to life!

There were over 700 people in total and 70 Redeemer students came out to take the stand against abortion. The silent protest started at 2 pm. and continued until 4 pm with people holding sighs of protest. Signs saying "Abortion Hurts Women" and "Abortion Kills Children" clearly brought the message home. Through supportive honks and not-so-supportive shouts the people stood firm. It was only two hours and it was a great to see Redeemer students actively taking a stand to impacted those who drove by, making them question their stand on abortion and how wrong it is. Finishing the day, we all gathered for juice and cookies, to share how we felt over the events of the past two hours and to reaffirm our cause together.

MONTREAL SEAFARERS

Organized by Brenda Dykstra, two groups made their way to the Seafarer's Centre in Montreal. Here they witnessed to men from various parts of the globe, having their minds opened to see what many of us would consider to be a difficult life of hardships and separation from family, home, and land. The men were excited to see young faces; with much openness they showed us everything on board from the most advanced "to the shit of the future" (Singaporean captain). Our experience will not soon be forgotten.

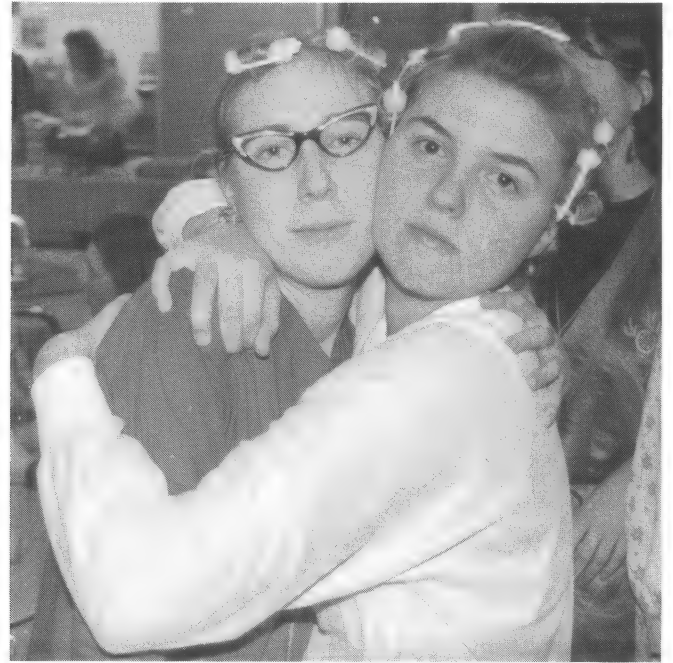

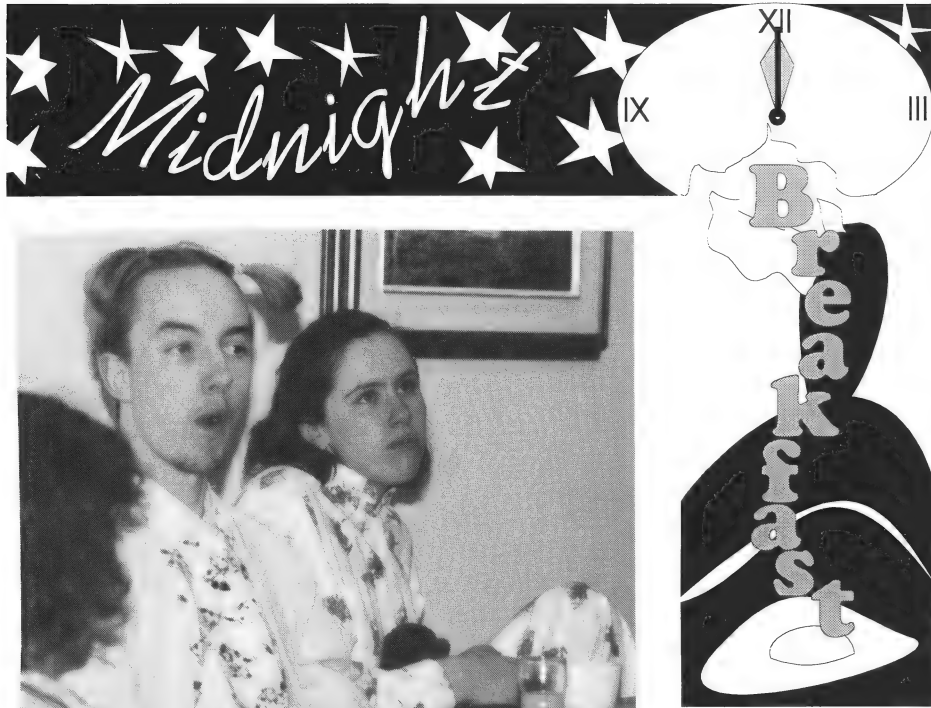

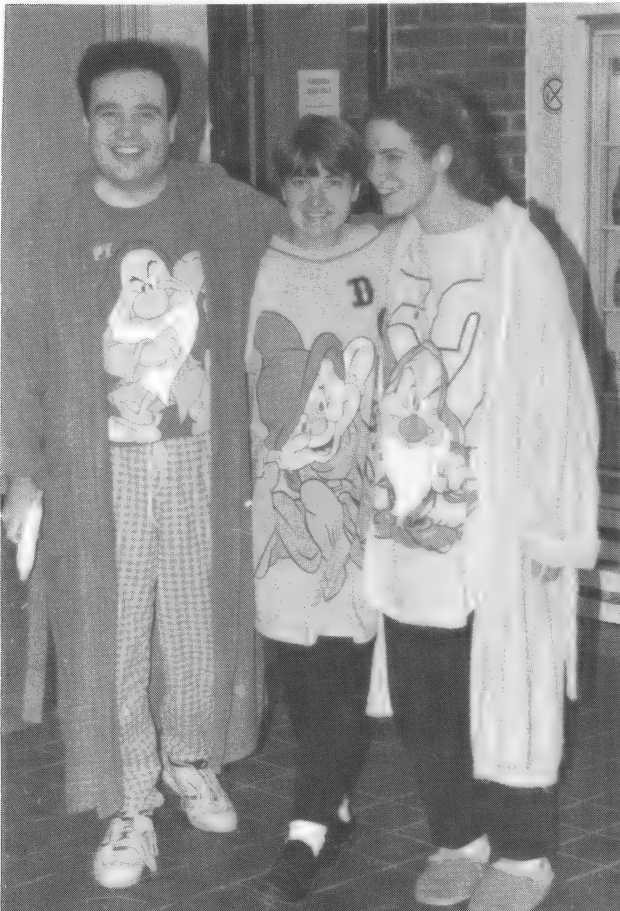

Mississippi Mission Trip

Who would have thought that a 24 hour road trip would result in 14 new friendships and a mountain of memories? For some of us, our dreams were realized as we toured Graceland, the home of Elvis Presley. For others, we sought reward in building wheelchair ramps, fixing leaky roofs and poor plumbing, building steps, and screening in porches. The opportunities for work were endless and everyone discovered talents that they never knew they had. As well, many of us met the challenge of sharing our faith in Jesus Christ with people who saw no reason for hope and who couldn't fathom why we would spend our Spring Break working for others. These one-on-one conversations often presented the most difficult but rewarding challenges. The trip however, was definitely not all work and no play as Eileen and her friend Aleke made every effort to combine exciting tourist activities to our agenda as well. Such activities included a tour guided by Dan Mahoney, who runs the Christian Volunteer Service in Port Gibson, where we stayed. This tour took us to places such as: Rodney an eerie, deserted Ghost town, China Grove, an impressive cotton plantation converted into a Southern Bed and Breakfast, and an Old Country Store in Claiborne County still running in its old fashioned manner. As well, we visited many beautiful sites in New Orleans, Louisiana where everyone was enjoying the aftermath of Mardi Gras. The excitement of our tourist activities prepared us for what we came to do. The team worked hard and in four days completed ten different jobs. The thrill of seeing our efforts realized was very encouraging. So next year pack your bags and join the group heading South to Mississippi. It will be the best decision imaginable!

The Midnight Breakfast is needed by all. This 10:00 p.m. event is chance to dress how ever one wishes in sort of appropriate bed wear?? This time gives the students of Redeemer break form the stress of studying for final exams and to be served free food by the faculty and staff. How ever in the next few days some will be regretting to see the face of some the faculty. But for now it is a time to goof around, wear curlers in the hair, house coats on the back and show off ones favorite stuffed and fluffy sleeping mate. Maybe even give it a few bites to eat.

Billy Bishop Goes To War

The play of Billy Bishop Goes to War, was an insight dramatization of one young Canadian soldier's entrance in the horrors and life of a WWI fighter pilot. Joel Bootsma flies solo in this one act play adjoin by Al Zuidema for comical and sober songs of the warriors of the air. The audience also shares with Billy personal letters from home and a lost fiance.

"PEER GYNT", by Henrik Ibsen.
Go round and around...

The Boyg, the Soul, the only one, tells Peer Gynt to go 'round and around'. Peer repeats this to himself many times during the play; The trouble is, he does not really understand the implications thereof.

Gynt is a man who spends his life running from responsibilities, personal & otherwise. He won't admit to mistakes; glides from charmer to rogue, pennilessness to successful capitalist, fur trader to false prophet, all the while maintaining a certain cynicism. The closing of the play brings him back to his original starting point, older, not much wiser and in grave danger of being melted down in the casting ladle because he has never been himself. His life runs in a circle and, like a pony at the amusement rides, doesn't go anywhere very fast.

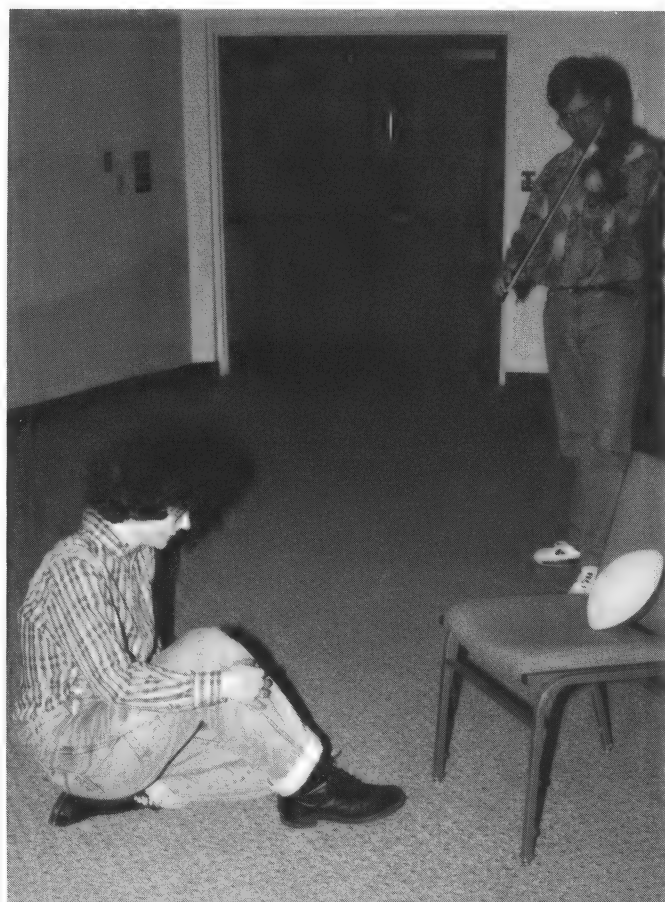

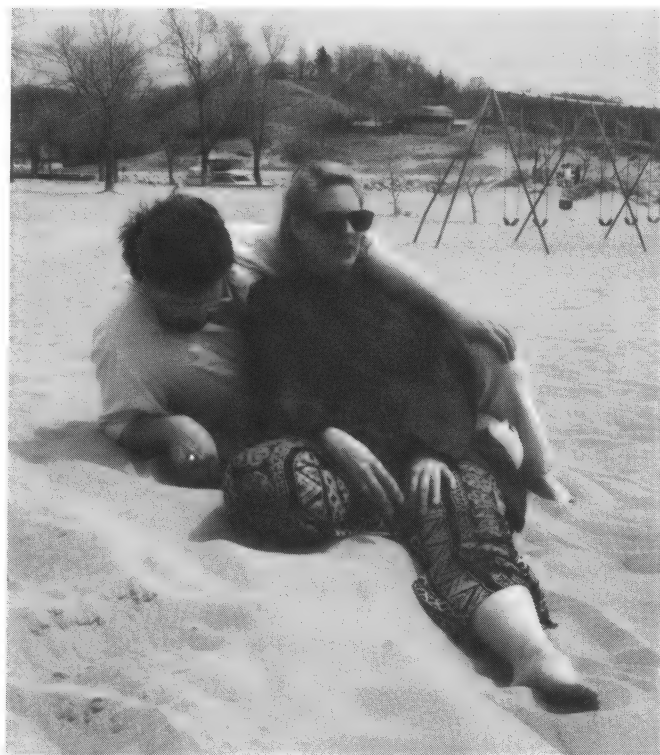

Involvement in the play meant that everyone spent time going round and around. Rehearsals sometimes felt as if they would never end, our Director wondered what we, as performers, felt about the play, we wondered what he felt about the play? As a first timer on stage, I found the whole production of Gynt interesting, occasionally baffling, and time consuming. An experience not to be missed. Production was not completely linear, nor circular, it was more like a wave; up and down, with a little interference, until we reached a very satisfying conclusion.

The Choir Tour

This year the choir left the country and toured the great state of Michigan. After a lot of hard work in practice it was great to give Calvin a run for their money. The group grew closer with devotions and fun "awards" and the music really came together. We met a lot of great people and were really able to represent Redeemer. But it wasn't all work, we also had plenty of time to relax on the beach and swoon over high school students (and footballs!). It was a tour that we will all remember fondly. The Mecca Tour!

Redeemer College Mural

In celebration of God's steadfast love and faithfulness, this mural is presented to Redeemer College and the students who will grace these halls in the future. Designed and painted by Matth Cupido. A gift of the class of 1996.

The year in chorus was a learning experience for all. We grew as an ensemble and went on to do some memorable things. We sang with the concert choir in the Christmas concert and had the honour to sing for Convocation to mention only some of the years high lights.

"Urbane" (Beth Koning, left) The works are chiaroscuro drawings depicting the lives of those "urbane". These individuals are those encountered by us day by day. Like art, it is our choice whether we choose to interact and uncover more about those around us.

"Urbane" (Tim Van Hemert, left) in this Context means the essence of that which is urban. I have portrayed here in this exhibition some important areas of Urban Sociology in the structural realm. The city fascinates me with its diversity, relationships and problems. Worldwide urbanization affect everyone. This exhibition was to give an awareness.

THE DEVIL IS RED (Chris Cuthill, top centre) Hatred, the great impetus of action, has impelled the Church to construct painted devils – to demonize groups or individuals in a politically profitable, but wholly blasphemous utilization of God's name. As with the crusades of old, Falwellesque vipers urge thier sheep to pursue the mythical incarnation of thier diactic fundamentalist agenda. To oppose this "manipulation of Consciousness" which Marx astutely acknowledged, is to undertake His mission to evil and oppression.

Palettable Imagery

(Michelle ter Haar, top right) Is an exploration of the expressiveness of the human mouth through oil painting, sculpture, and computer generated works. The formal qualities of line, colour, and shape will be emphasized and played with in relation to the expressiveness of the mouth.

The artist is dealing with a visual interest in the shape of mouths, more specifically the lips, and a conceptual interest in the relationship between words and imagery. The viewer is invited to approach the works with attitudes of inquisitiveness, playfulness, and imagination, bringing in the personal experiences to the art works.

Consider the lilies . . . was an earth art installation with wood block prints which explored and challenged its viewers to take note of the temporal creation around us. It was a show in which one had to participate in by waking through and on the path of slate "I am always in awe of the diversity, complexity and wonder of God's creation. Consider the lies. . . is my way of taking time to convey the natural world around me." (Diana Mostert, left)

@bjekt Boks'Z (Alan Groombridge, right) A metaphoric discussion of abject emotions and psychological control, through the use of sculpture boxes and ladders.

Senate had a great year serving the students of Redeemer. The year opened with a BBQ, followed by senate being host to dances, sumo wrestling, Coffee House, Coffee Klutz, Spiritual Retreat, The Student Annual Baquet, as well as working through student concerns throughout the year. A high light, was the huge fundraising event for the Wesley Urban Ministries. God bless the student representatives in future to continue in His service.

Twelve issues are published and put out into the hallways of the College throughout the academic year providing students with information on events, both in the past and those in the future.

Yearbook Club

A mighty fine book has again been put out by the staff of the yearbook. This behind the scene accomplishments could not have been done without the help of Phil Beck, Elly Van Driel, Rachel VanderSluis, Nicole Dykstra, Brenda Heyink, Dan Post, Nicola Ashcroft, Duane Elzinga.

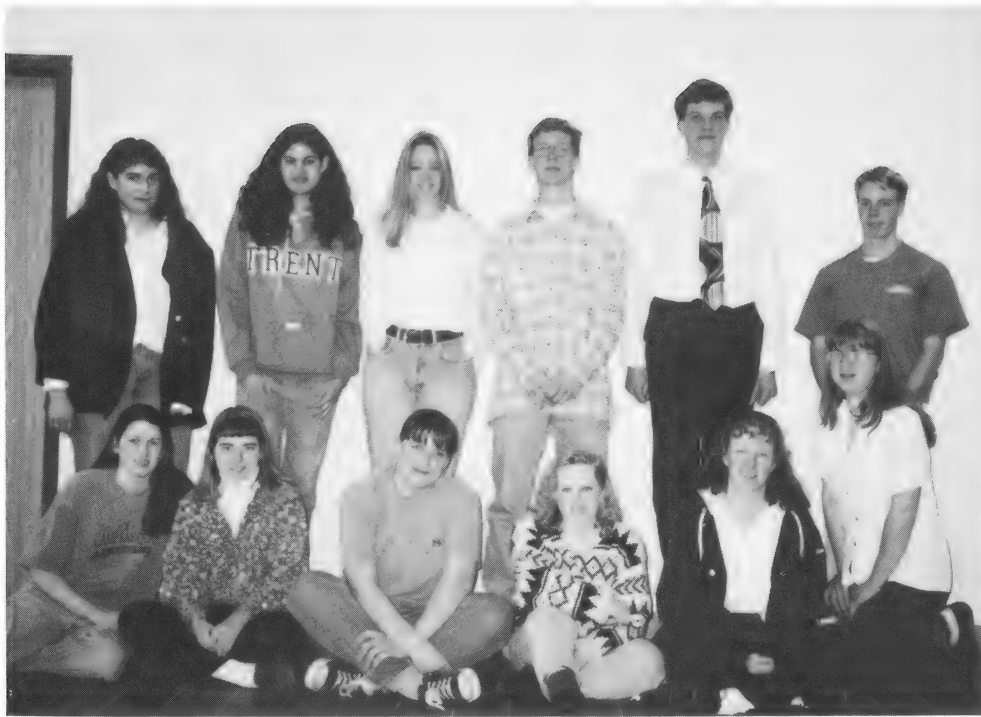

Praise and Worship Team

The Praise and Worship Team leads many people in worship one Sunday night a month. They call this gathering "Church in the Box". They only want to lead the worship service and don't want to be seen as a performing band. As a group they feel that they have grown closer together and closer to the Lord. They hope that in some way they can witness to others through song and worship and that the Holy Spirit will work in people's hearts. They have been on a short cross-Ontario tour and have led services in several churches. They pray that they will be able to continue serving and praising the Lord.

Kid's Clubs

(words by the Wednesday group) Any experience teaching Sunday School had not prepare us for what awaited us within the walls of a certain church on James Street every Wednesday night. Assuming 1st that we got there in one piece, with the way that Josh Vriesema drove. When there we were in for a wild time!! God was good to us and richly rewarded our efforts with the kids. The numbers went from 7 kids to 20 by the end of the school year. The Children that we ministered to had the most fun with our wild and crazy games. This allowed them to release their energy, which never seem to run out. The only thing with that was ours sometimes did. But we all had fun teaching and loving those kids.

Well here is the 1995-1996 ANNO DOMINI !! In my mind's eye I would have to say that this collection of photographs and the memories that are attached to each is a part of the finest yearbook of Redeemer College's history. But then again I could be a little biased since a little of my handy work is on most of these pages. When I took on the position of yearbook editor, 2 days after the school year started in September, I was not fully prepared for the situation that had arisen when the assistant editor for the year decided to go to another school. But I had six years of putting these books together, so I decided to go for it. Since there was no one else at the time who wanted the job, it was mine. My luck! I figured this would not be so bad of a job for the most of it. It has been a joy bringing this book to completion, maybe not a timely completion but it is here despite all the little hic ups.

Designing the yearbook was a labour of love with a few exceptions, for example, an Ad Manager who cost more in expenses than in revenue gained. Receiving dorm photos in the summer and not receiving photos at all by some other groups caused a head ache for me and probably to those who I had nagged. I had the yearbook book stolen for two days: it was in the back of my fiances' car. The car was repaired but some pages were damaged in the ordeal, my deepest regrets to some members of our graduating class. I think that I could be plagued by an evil spirit that loves to torture me by riddling the yearbook staff computers with viruses and having the computer tell me that it had saved a file when it really did not. You would be surprised at how many times I was happily working along when the computer would scream at me saying that I have been asking too much of it. It would ask to shut down due to a fatal internal error of what looked like some sort of Star Trek star date or what ever. I think it might have been a monthly thing of computers? Along with other countless computer and printer problems, a monitor had gone kaput and I accidentally wiped out most of the hard drive. But in my defence, what would think is a more appropriate choice when a virus program asks you if you wish to UPDATE or CLEAN? Yes, I thought that clean would work well too, it was just a little too well though.

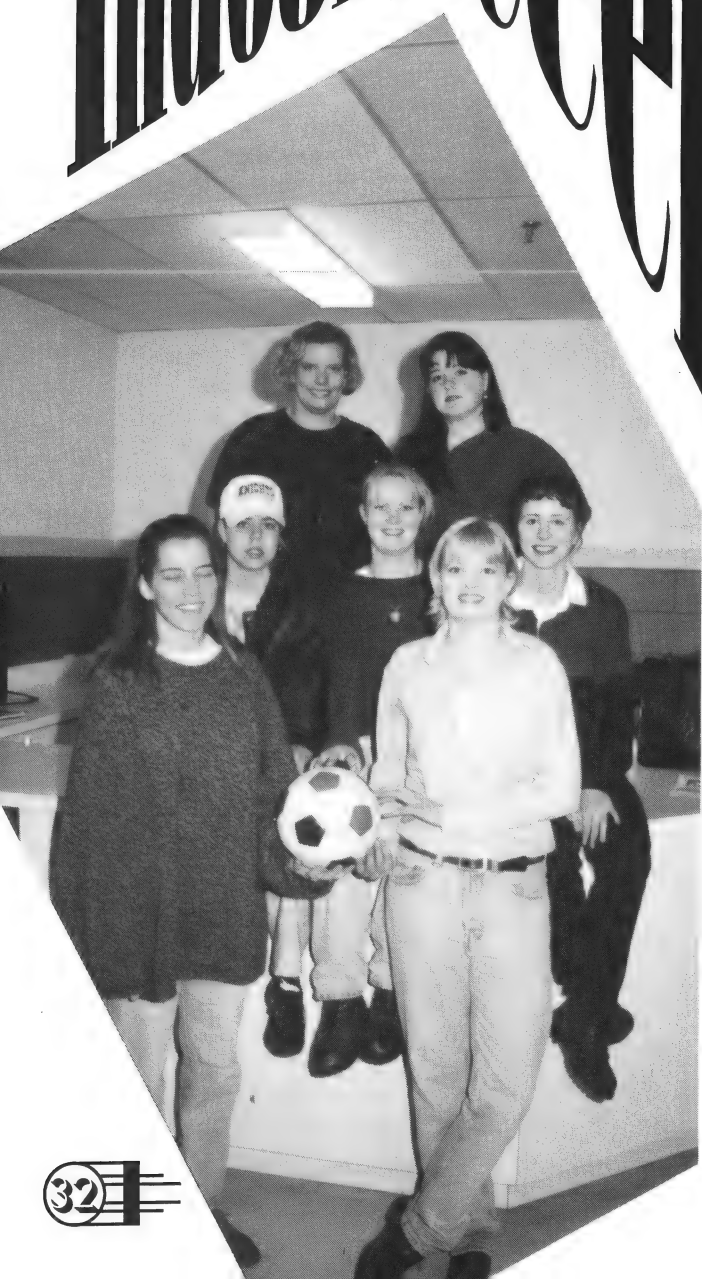

All in all I hope you treasure this book as I have tried to pack it full of photographic memories that will not fade as might the mind's memories. I hope that you will peruse these pages throughout your life, and that when a smile is brought to your face from an image, that maybe you should track down that old friend of Redeemer College and get in touch to talk about all the good times you had in the year of 95-96. God bless you in your lives. I hope that all that was learned and experienced at Redeemer College has blessed your life.

*Yours
John Elzinga*

Indoor Soccer

After practicing on and off for several months, the women's indoorsoccer teams' season amounted to two games, one day. This day was the worst one possible for the royal's as our numbers were decimated by illness, injury and other plans. In the crucial game determining who would advance to provincials was against Niagara. We dominated the game. Unfortunately, lacking the scoring power, we came out on the short end of a 2-1 score.

Redeemer Royals HOCKEY

The 1995 -96 Royals hockey team had high hopes and aspirations for the season. Entering the NCHL for the first time in four year, we set our goal for the championships. With expertise coaching form Leo Paone and the return of assistant Don Stelpstra, we had a solid veteran defense, young speedy forwards, solid goal tending and a new crop of rookies who fit in well to the program. We played strongly throughout most of the season and shocked Calvin College with a 3-3 tie. Unfortunately, injuries and illnesses hampered our chances as we bowed out in the first round of league playoffs.

Message From the President

On behalf of the College community, I would like to salute the editor and the yearbook committee on a job well done. The 1996 edition of ANNO DOMINI is a memorable publication, and it is a privilege to have this opportunity to contribute to its contents.

I trust that as you peruse these pages, you will be reminded of the richness of your university experience here at Redeemer and will be filled with a sense of thanks giving to the Lord for his faithfulness during this 1995-96 academic year. Let me highlight some of the significant events of this past year.

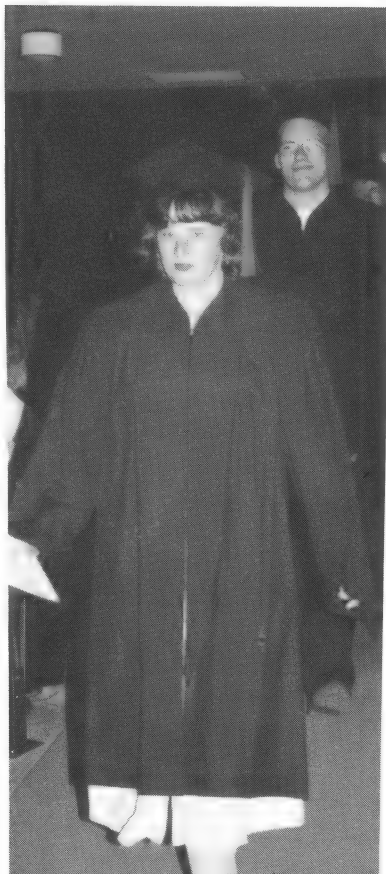

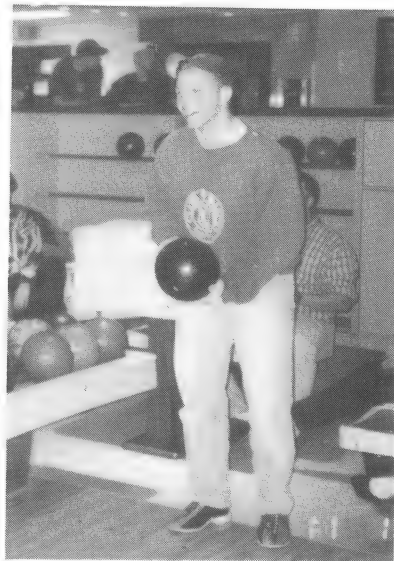

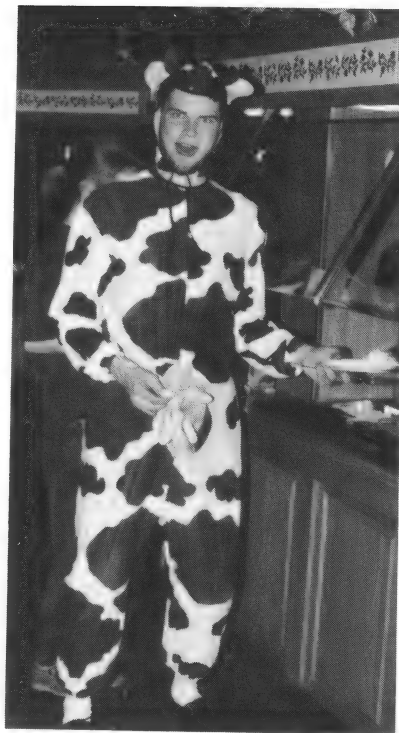

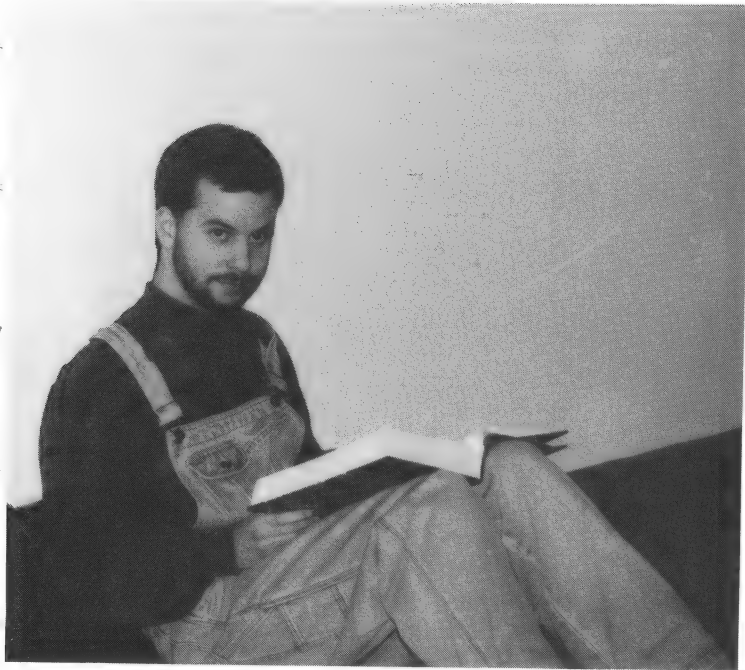

This was our tenth year at the Ancaster campus and it saw us reach our second-highest enrolment of 472 FTE students. We were also enriched by a greater diversity on campus, including students from 29 different denominations, a greater ethnic and racial diversity, a greater variety in age and the presence of more international students. We also welcomed our new Vice-President (academic), Dr. M. Elaine Botha, from South Africa. With our unity in Christ as our Starting Point, we explored the claims of his lordship over all of life.

We were privileged to witness the production of a significant piece of theatre, "Strangers in the Land," written by Professor Ray Louter and Enjoyed by record crowds. To strengthen our programs in the sciences, we signed an articulation agreement with the University of Guelph, allowing qualified students who take two or three years of study at the College to complete an honours degree in chemistry or biochemistry at Guelph. Finally, the painting of a mural in the College by artist, Matth Cupido, provided a beautiful symbolic expression of the gift of God's Spirit who gives life and insight in our academic work.

We trust that the learning you have done, the relationships you have formed and the gifts and talents you have developed have helped you to become better servant leaders for Christ. It is our prayer that you may continue to use the freedom Christ gives as a means to serve others, living the spirit of our theme for this year, "The free are free to serve," taken from Galatians 5:13.

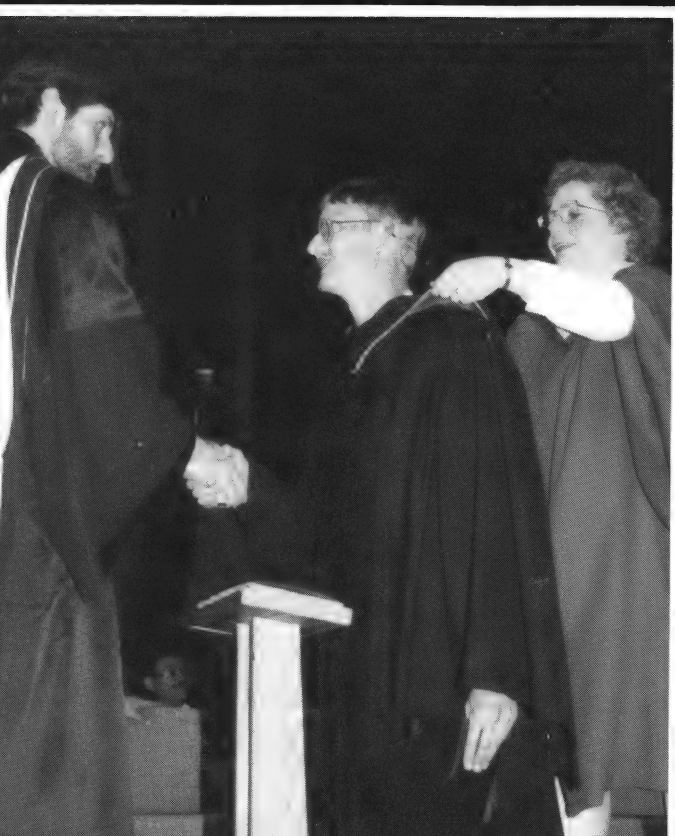

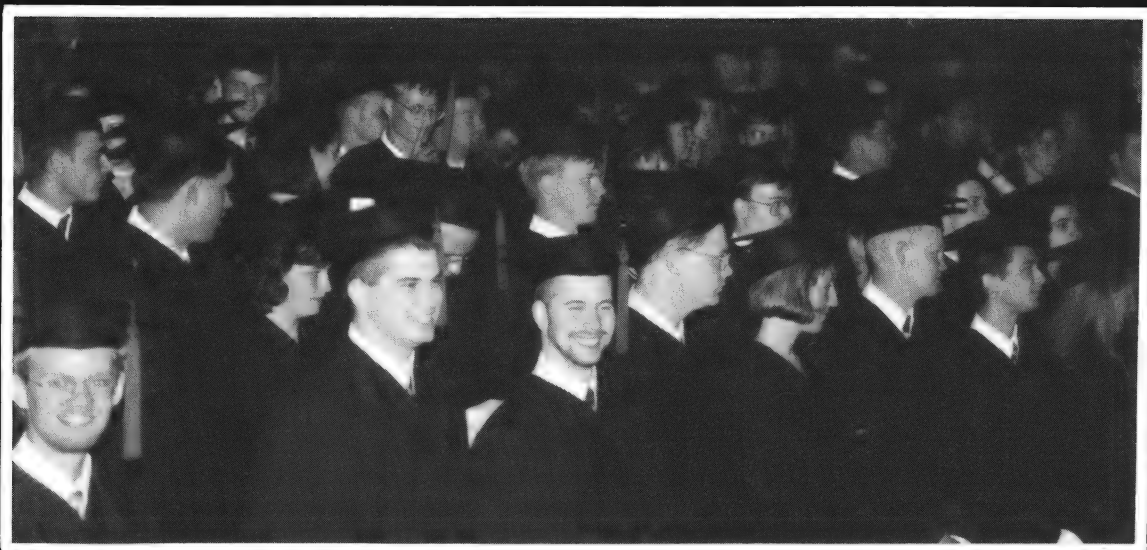

And we pray that the Lord will continue to enable Redeemer College to develop as a significant Christian witness in university education and scholarship in Canada And Beyond.

Graduating Class of 1996

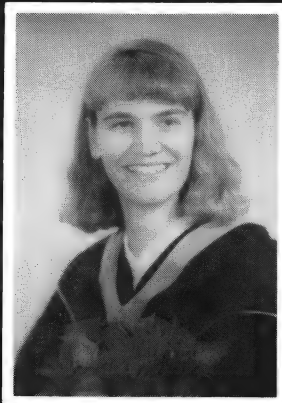

As you look at the faces of graduating class of Redeemer College 1996, you see a joy and a nervousness in some. This day for most is the end of schooling years and now Redeemers proud scholars who are going to be entering a new area of their lives. They will be leaving the halls of Redeemer where for four or more years they have expanded their minds and developed many relationships with the faculty, staff and schoolmates in a Christian world. As you look on the next few pages remember the good, the bad, and all the times you have had with these people. The Lord bless them all in the endeavors

BUSINESS (CO-OP)

A black and white photograph capturing a candid moment between three young women outdoors. In the foreground, two women are engaged in a kiss. The woman on the left is seen in profile, wearing glasses and a light-colored shirt. The woman on the right has long, light-colored hair and is also wearing a light-colored top. Behind them, a third woman with long, wavy hair is smiling at the camera. She is wearing a dark-colored shirt. The woman in the middle, who is being kissed, is wearing a white t-shirt with the text "where Senior" visible. The background is slightly out of focus, showing trees and an open field.
